MISS CECIL ARDEN.
After a successful season with the Metropolitan Opera Company, Miss Arden sailed for study and travel in Europe. The photographer caught her on the deck of the "Empress of France" as the steamer was leaving. She, too, uses the Colgate Compact No. 100. Its lightness and beautiful design please the most critical eye. Its fragrant powder is delightful.

HAVE YOU READ THE NEW MAGAZINE? The International Interpreter

In the coming issues you will find such topics discussed as the inner history of the Irish question; the meaning of what is taking place in Russia; shall the United States cancel or fund for a long time a part or all of the war debts?

Edited by Frederick Dixon, one of the foremost authorities on international affairs, with its own news-gathering force in the news centers of the world, the Interpreter takes the world-wide point of view and gives you the significance of what is taking place on all continents in its relation to all countries and from its historic setting.

This is a weekly magazine of understanding. The daily press teems with foreign dispatches. There are plenty of magazines that give you the color and atmosphere of Europe, but The International Interpreter is one that enables you to understand what is taking place and to think in world terms.

Fill out the enclosed coupon and we will mail you free and without any obligation four copies of the Interpreter. After reading them you may subscribe for this world-wide weekly at $6.00 a year or we will discontinue sending it at your option.

Interpreter Publishing Corporation,
268 West 40th Street, New York, U. S. A.

Please send me four issues of the INTERPRETER free and without obligation to me, except that I agree to read it. After reading the four issues I will either subscribe at $6.00 a year or ask you to discontinue.

Two Outstanding Figures of the Irish Free State

THE martial garb that clothes both these figures is emblematic of Ireland, which at the moment is an armed camp. The civil conflict has spread from Dublin all over the island. While minor successes have been recorded for the insurgents, the tide of battle in general has set heavily against them. This has been due largely to superior numbers and better equipment on the part of the regulars, but also to popular support. The sympathies of the people in general have been on the side of the Government. The military operations of the Nationals have been carried on largely by General O'Duffy as leader. But the dominant figure on the Government side is Michael Collins, who, added to the possession of military ability, has shown courage and steadfastness of a high order. In this he has hitherto had the backing of Arthur Griffith, but the recent death of that leader has placed an additional heavy weight of responsibility on his shoulders.

GENERAL OWEN O'DUFFY

Commander of the Irish National forces, wearing a smile of victory in Limerick after his troops had driven the rebels from the town.

Dashing Horsemanship by French Colonial Troops;

CHARGE OF COLONIALS AT LONGCHAMPS

One of the most striking features of Bastille Day at Paris, July 14, was an exhibition of horsemanship by French colonial troops at Longchamps, in the suburbs of the capital. The picturesque garb of the mounted men, their absolute control of their steeds and the headlong rush of their charge form a spectacle that thrilled the blasé Parisians. (Wide World Photos.)

FANCY DIVING AT THE CHICAGO PAGEANT OF PROGRESS

One of the features of the Pageant of Progress, recently held at the great municipal pier in Chicago, was a series of swimming and diving contests, in which some of the most famous experts of the country, both men and women, took part. Miss Helen Wainwright of New York is here shown performing a standing back dive, the grace and accuracy of which elicited applause from the crowds that thronged the pier. (Keystone View Co.)

AMERICAN ARMY CHIEF IN GENIAL MOOD

General Pershing chatting with little Gladys Reckord, daughter of Adjutant General Milton Reckord, commanding the Maryland National Guard, at Edgewood, Md. The General had recently reviewed the troops and complimented General Reckord on the discipline and soldierly appearance of his men.

"MATTY'S" FOOT ON HIS NATIVE HEATH

All followers of baseball with whom the only "Matty" has been an idol will be delighted to hear that the peerless pitcher is now on the road to health. For more than a year he has been waging a stubborn battle against tuberculosis at Saranac Lake, N. Y., and now seems to have got the better of his foe. He is here seen at his old home in Factoryville, Pa., on his forty-second birthday, playing checkers with his father. (Keystone View Co.)

Opening of Dutch Parliament by Queen Wilhelmina

BOA CON- STRICTOR AS NECKLACE

Roy O. Curtis, New York lad, 11 years old, who much prefers to play with snakes than with toys. He is here shown holding a boa constrictor at the Bronx Zoo, New York City. He has absolutely no fear of reptiles, and has astounded naturalists by his knowledge of their habits and his facility and fearlessness in handling them. (Kadel & Herbert.)

HOLLAND'S QUEEN OPEN- ING PARLIA- MENT

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland is here shown entering her coach after opening Parliament at The Hague, Holland, recently. She is the only woman ruler in Europe, and perhaps the best beloved by her people of all royal personages. Socialism has made great strides in that country, but despite this the Queen's tenure of power seems assured, as she is firmly enshrined in the affections of her people. (U. & U.)

STOOPING TO CONQUER

How captivity differs from freedom is rather amusingly illustrated in this snapshot of the big giraffe at the Bronx Zoo, New York City, reaching down his enormous neck to get his food from the ground. In the free life of the African wilds the giraffe is accustomed to feed on the foliage of trees, for which his great height admirably adapts him. When he wants water he can simply wade in until the water is level with his mouth. There are disadvantages in being an inmate of the zoological garden. (P. & A. Photos.)

Aerial View of Buffalo, N. Y.

SUPERB view from an airplane of Buffalo, the second city of New York State and the eleventh city of the United States in the matter of population. It is one of the most enterprising, prosperous and rapidly growing cities in the Union. By the census of 1920 it had a population of 506,775. This does not include the numerous towns that are practically suburbs of the city. Buffalo has a more diversified line of industries than any city in the United States. Two advantages are: Natural gas, for which mains have been extensively laid, and the cheap electrical power from Niagara Falls.

The city is laid out in wide, rectangular streets, beautifully shaded and decorated with shrubbery more completely than any other city in the world. It has an area of forty-two square miles and extends about ten miles along the lake and river front. The park system includes six large parks of 1,229 acres.

Features of the Civil War Now Convulsing Irish Free State

ACTING IRISH PRESIDENT

William Cosgrove, Minister of Local Government in Dublin, Ireland, now acting as President of the Dail Eireann, following the death of the former chief, Arthur Griffith.

DESTRUCTION OF BRIDGE

Bridge on the main road leading from Leirtrim to Sligo, Ireland, blown up by high explosives. On this bridge the water-supply pipes were laid, and they were included in the general destruction. Temporary pipes can be seen which were laid in place of those that were ruined. The scene is typical of many that are occurring all over the troubled new State, and is reminiscent of similar scenes in the World War.

(Wide World Photos.)

ROAD FIGHTING

Detachment of Irish Free State troops lining up by a roadside near Bruree to return the fire which had been poured upon them by rebels in ambush. Guerrilla fighting of this type has spread all over the country, and only in a few cases have the engagements risen to the importance of pitched battles.

(P. & A. Photos.)

BARRACKS IN RUINS

Shattered walls of the cavalry barracks in Waterford, Ireland, which were occupied by the Republican troops and blown up by them before they evacuated. The fighting about Waterford was unusually fierce, but the Free State troops finally conquered owing to their preponderance in numbers and especially in artillery.

Monster Turtle on Boston Pier; Warehouse Demolished

HUGE SPECIMEN

This great turtle, the largest ever landed at the Commonwealth Pier, Boston, is seven feet long and weighs 1,500 pounds. It was with a harpoon and line, held by six men of the crew, that the turtle was pulled on board of the little Gloucester vessel Corilla off the Nantucket lightship.

ENORMOUS PACIFIST GATHERING IN BERLIN

Over 100,000 people gathered at the Lustgarten, Berlin, on Aug. 1, the eighth anniversary of the outbreak of the World War, the result of which was so fatal to imperial Germany. The meeting was designed as a protest against war and "No More War" was the slogan of the speakers who addressed the gathering.

SPECTACULAR FEATURE OF ROCKY MOUNTAIN EXPOSITION
Illuminated archway of jewels as it will look in Salt Lake City the first week in October when erected at the entrance of the great electrical exposition. Two batteries of powerful searchlights will play streams of colored rays on the jewels, and also make radiant with light the tall poplar trees which line the approach to the exposition grounds.

HONORING ARGONNE DEAD
Scene at the dedication of the striking monument that has been erected in the Argonne in memory of the thousands of allied soldiers who lost their lives there in the closing battles of the war. Raymond Poincaré, French Premier, and others made eloquent addresses. It was in the Argonne that the fighting of our own troops swept away the last defenses of the enemy and added new lustre to American arms.

The outcome of the match was unexpected, for Richards is one of the members of the Davis Cup team and Hunter had recently won a single victory over Gerald Patterson of Australia. The Kinseys, however, played a sterling game and fairly won their victory. (© Underwood & Underwood.)

CONFERENCE OF RAILWAY LABOR LEADERS

Meeting of the shop craftsmen and the "Big Four" brotherhood chiefs in the Machinists' Hall, Washington, Aug. 11, to determine the reply to be forwarded to President Harding in answer to his latest peace offer. While Burt M. Jewell, leader of the strike, was conferring with these representatives Chairman Hooper of the Railroad Labor Board was in close conference with the President and Administration leaders. The answer to the President's proposal was in the negative. (© Harris & Ewing.)

There are sixteen men here shown and thirteen nationalities are represented in this typical group of striking miners. Left to right: M. Selsk (Serbian), Joe Leinhart (Czechoslovakian), Mike Lupak (Russian), William Caldwell (American negro), James Pascuti (Italian), J. E. Robinson (American), and Mike Koesch (Austrian). Standing, left to right: L. M. Seinar (Polish), Frank Mapesh (Slav), Jim Resch (Italian), C. M. Scotch (German), C. J. BROTHERHOOD CHIEFS

Chiefs of the "Big Four" brotherhood who met in Washington Aug. 11 with representatives of the striking railroad shopmen. Left to right are: L. E. Sheppard (Conductors), W. S. Stone (Engineers), D. B. Robertson (Firemen), and W. N. Doake, representing W. G. Lee (who was ill) for the Trainmen. The heads of the "Big Four" were called into conference to devise some means of assisting the shopmen either in the furtherance or settlement of the strike. The net result of the conference was that the strikers rejected the proposal of the President and the opposing parties seemed as far apart as ever.

(© Harris & Ewing.)

Incidents and Figures in Strike Situation

A GLEAM of hope was thrown on the strike situation that has so seriously affected the industries of the country by the agreement signed in Cleveland, Ohio, by representatives of the coal miners' union and operators which insures the return of the miners to work at an early date. The operators in States not represented in the convention have also shown a disposition to bring the strike to an end as soon as possible.

In the railroad strike the outlook is less promising. The President has been indefatigable in his efforts to compose the differences between the railroad executives and the striking shopmen, and has submitted several proposals, none of which, however, has met the approval of both sides. It is reported that the matter is to be put up to Congress for settlement.

BOMBS HURLED AT RAILROAD TRAIN

Three separate bombs were thrown at a speeding West Shore Railroad train at North Bergen, N. J., recently. Several were injured and the passengers thrown into a panic. It was charged by the railroads that the bombs were thrown by strikers, but in the early days of the investigation no evidence was produced to sustain the charge. An inquiry is being pressed by the county authorities.

Personalities Claiming Public Attention

ARTHUR GRIFFITH

Former head of the Irish Free State, whose unexpected death Aug. 12 has spread a pall of sorrow over Ireland. He was one of the signers and chief defenders of the treaty between Ireland and England before the establishment of the Free State. He had been the acting chief of the Sinn Fein movement and suffered imprisonment for his convictions.

GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO

Italian poet, playwright, orator and dashing adventurer, who, it was reported in news dispatches, suffered severe injuries on Aug. 13 by falling from a window in the villa of his home at Gardone, Riviera, Italy. It was feared that his skull was fractured.

JOSEPH E. SHEEDY

Massachusetts man who has been named Vice President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation by Chairman Lasker. He had been serving as Acting Vice President for some time.
(© Harris & Ewing.)

LORD NORTHCLIFFE

Internationally known English newspaper publisher, whose death at the age of 57 years was announced on Aug. 14. For many years he has been one of the most famous and powerful personalities in England and in all Europe. Beginning at the age of 23 with small capital he rose with meteoric speed in the newspaper profession until at the age of 30 he owned more than thirty periodicals of almost every imaginable kind, from comic papers to conservative magazines. Later he bought The Times, The Evening News and founded The Daily Mail. His tremendous vitality and strong convictions made him a power to be reckoned with. He has made and unmade Cabinets and exerted a power in Great Britain unapproached except perhaps by that of Lloyd George himself.

WINCH THAT IS EASILY PORTABLE AND POSSESSES GREAT POWER

Unusual interest has been taken by builders, contractors and lumbermen in this Cletrac winch. The action of the screw cone clutch and screw brake is very similar to that of the standard hoisting machine. The operator is in full view of his work, has complete control of the load, and is out of danger of any accident between the drum and the operation, as he stands on the side of the tractor. It can hoist 50,000 feet of lumber per day.

Scientific Inventions and Mechanical Appliances

THE MIXERMOBILE

The weight of this contrivance is 2,400 pounds, and its capacity is seven cubic feet of mixed concrete. The discharge chute operates from either side or from the driver's seat. Power is furnished by a one-ton motor truck with twenty horsepower available. An advantage claimed for the mixermobile is that it eliminates the necessity of retaining a mixer on the job when not actually pouring concrete.

CONCRETE RIPPER

New road-breaking machine weighing twenty tons, which is being demonstrated in London. "Timothy," as the machine has been nicknamed, has eight teeth in the form of steel chisels which drop into the concrete to be ripped with an impact of 5,000 pounds. It is driven by a gasoline engine traveling entirely under its own power. The powerful machine is here shown in action biting off two tons at once. Its value in a substitution of new streets for old is apparent at a glance, as it saves the labor of hundreds of men depending wholly on muscle power.

CHRONOGRAPH

Three master clocks buried underground to maintain constant temperature keep tab on Father Time at the Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. The chronograph shown in this picture records time signals as they are sent out by radio telegraph to all parts of the United States. This time-recording instrument indicates the time that the signals leave the observatory on the same sheet on which is recorded the actions of the master underground clocks.

Screen and Operatic Stars

Douglas Fairbanks dressed for his rôle as Robin Hood, in his forthcoming screen production, standing beside Mme. Schumann-Heink, the famous operatic singer, at one of the locations in the outskirts of Hollywood, Cal., where his play is being filmed.

Funeral of Tong War Victim

Profuse floral offerings on the cars of the funeral cortège of Ko Low, Chinese leader of the Hip Sing Tong, who was murdered recently, possibly by a member of a rival tong. A large throng of Chinese participated in the ceremony. There were so many huge floral tributes that room could not be found for them on the cars, and some were left on the sidewalk in front of the late leader's home.

---a Home CASH REGISTER for 50c

Here's what every housewife wants—a way to have money for everyday necessities, and to budget household 'xpense without a lot of bookkeeping.

Susie Savit's Put and Take CASH REGISTER for the Home

It's very simple. When you get your weekly allowance you put 10c out of each $1.00 in No. 1 SAVINGS.

You put whatever one-quarter of your month's rent amounts to in No. 2. In No. 3 you put the money for the Baker—Butcher—Iceman, etc.

And in No. 4 you put 16c of each dollar to be applied to your dressing account.

In No. 5 you put 5 cents of each dollar each week to be used when you need a Doctor or Dentist or when you need anything from the Druggist. And so on.

This is the way to keep accounts without being an accountant.

Order yours today, price $.50 postpaid—two for a dollar. Send money order, silver or stamps.

If it's not worth the price to you after you've used it for thirty days—mail it back and I'll return your $.50.

If you send a dollar for two, Susie Savit will send you a chart that has helped over 20,000 housewives open savings accounts. The chart alone costs $.50, so that you get $1.50 for $1.00 if you send your order now.

Youth is Flexible

Keep Your Buoyancy and Your Elastic Step

Your vacation comfort should not end when you board the train for home and routine duties. Cantilever Shoes help you to conserve the vitality and bodily grace you acquired thru relaxation and outdoor exercise.

The flexible arch of Cantilevers gives elasticity to the step because it is made like your own foot arch and flexes with every step. Cantilevers are roomy without being loose; snug-fitting without pinching. The arch of Cantilevers follows the curve of your foot arch giving it the supple, restful support that nature would give you walking barefoot over soft ground or sand. Cantilevers permit the foot to exercise naturally and the blood to circulate normally, which keeps the foot healthy and youthful.

Your youthful flexibility depends much upon the shoes you wear. If your shoes are made the Cantilever way, your work in the home or office, your Fall shopping, your social calls, your week-end trips or occasional outings, may be done with the freedom and comfort you enjoyed on your vacation.

Cantilever Shoes are good looking. Fashionably dressed women everywhere like their neatly rounded toe and low or medium heels. The fine materials in them are joined together by workers skilled in making a flexible arch shoe built on youthful lines.

Cantilever Shoes are trade-marked to protect you from substitution. They are sold by intelligent dealers everywhere who understand the foot and how to fit each individual type of foot.

Except in New York City there is only one dealer in each town. If no dealer listed at the left is near you, write to the manufacturers, Morse & Burt Co., 11 Carlton Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., for the name of a nearby dealer and a free booklet that gives many interesting points on shoes.
